

NEWS FROM MAUI.

Interesting Items from Our Lahaina Correspondent.

LAHAINA, May 3rd, 1896.

The Inspector-General has been visiting the schools of Lahaina district. While here, on Wednesday the 29th, he addressed a meeting of the district teachers. The subject discussed was "Reading" and proved to be as interesting as it will be valuable.

The Tsigawa brothers' troupe of Japanese acrobats have given three performances here during the last week to crowded tents. Their fourth and last performance was given on Monday, after which they will proceed to Wailuku and East Maui. Their coming has aroused great enthusiasm and national pride among the Japanese.

The championship and trophy of the West Maui Baseball League was carried off by the Lahainas on Saturday the 2nd, after a well contested game of 8 to 14.

The residence of Mr. A. Hanneberg, manager of Olowalu Plantation, was the scene of a very pleasant social dance. This is not the first time the genial manager has helped to break the monotony of country life for his friends and acquaintances. That it may not be the last is the sincere hope of all present at the occasion.

McClendless has struck water at a depth of 65 feet and is now working on his second well. He is here boring for the Lahaina Plantation, and although the water does not rise to the surface, the result is regarded as highly satisfactory. The second well has now reached a depth of 45 feet with 20 feet of excellent water. An experiment is to be tried; the boring will be continued until a surface flow is gained or sea water reached. The last is more probable according to many who should be judges.

Much rain has fallen in the mountains, all the streams are full, and all is verdant. Measles are now prevalent and playing havoc generally in the school rolls. No deaths, however.
